

Laz Donabedian Bio

Following an early career as a CPA, CFO, and Operations executive, Laz founded a physical therapy practice. Noting how many patients were injured workers, he approached Connecticut employers with a “better idea.” What if, instead of treating your injured people, we helped you prevent injuries? Laz jokingly claims he invented ergonomics in Connecticut.

Over the past 25 years Laz has worked with employers in Connecticut and 15 other states to utilize innovative practices to reduce workers comp costs and protect people, focusing on both prevention and management of treatment and return to work. Savings attributed to his services exceed $50,000,000.

Laz has achieved the ARM and ALCM designations, and is certified in ergonomics by The Bureau on Certification of Professional Ergonomists.
